Carr, who won state titles as an eighth-grader (103 pounds) and sophomore (126), left no doubt he was the premier 140-pounder in Kentucky by pinning all four of his opponents this weekend in a total of 4:35.

Carr (48-0) needed just 55 seconds to take care of highly regarded Andrew Tinsley of Caldwell County in the finals.

Carr needed an overtime to beat Tinsley 9-7 in a Hopkinsville tournament during the season, and Carr thought that caused some people to question him.

"People down around Hopkinsville doubted that I could hang with guys like Tinsley, but I proved I could," said Carr, who can become the first wrestler in Kentucky history to win four state titles if he prevails next year.

Valentine (45-2), who won at 103 pounds by pinning David Kalbfleisch of St. Xavier, credited the Yellowjackets' togetherness for their success.

"This team is so much like a family you can't describe it," he said. "It takes a lot of dedication to 140; David Houck of Dunbar sixth at 171; Denny Smith of Tates Creek sixth at 152; and Pat Wilkinson of Henry Clay sixth at heavyweight.

Sheldon Clark, which won the state title the previous two years, had a pair of individual champs in cousins Jeremy and Scott Rhodes. Jeremy, a junior, wrapped up a 36-0 season by beating Mike Bodner of St. Xavier for the 125 title. Scott, a freshman, won a controversial 5-3 decision over Harrison County's Adam Northcutt to win at 130. With the score tied at 3 with 14 seconds left, Northcutt was called for stalling, which gave Rhodes the go-ahead point.

Harrison County did have a winner in Kevin Case at 135.

UK football signee Miguel Merritt of Hopkinsville won his second consecutive title. He finished a 39-0 season by pinning George Hurley of Scott in 57 seconds.

Louisville football recruit Tendai Charasika of St. Xavier won his third state championship at 171 pounds. He won his semifinal and final matches by forfeit when his opponents were injured.
